

Stedman Ellis is Chief Operating Officer – Western Region of the Australian Petroleum Production and Exploration Association. APPEA is the peak national body representing Australia’s oil and gas exploration and production industry. Its member companies produce over 98 per cent of Australia’s oil and gas production and are responsible for around $145 billion of projects currently under construction.

Stedman manages APPEA’s WA, South Australia and NT advocacy and policy development. He had had an extensive career in the resources sector working in senior executive roles in both government and industry responsible for regulation and policy development, stakeholder engagement and advocacy. He gained international experience while working for BHP Billiton in Papua New Guinea and the United States.

Stedman also serves on the boards of several WA research, education and cultural organisations. He has a bachelor of arts from UWA.